G. O. P. Women of Walworth County Plan Vote Drive

(By Staff Correspondent.)
 Fifty women attended a conference of Walworth County workers at Elkhorn, Saturday afternoon, in the interests of the Morgan-Gandfield ticket of the republican party.
 Mrs. Grant Harrington sounded the keynote, by outlining the party principles.
 Mrs. Morris Steele spoke of the high characters of the candidates and mentioned the special specifications of each.
 Mrs. Walter Helms and Mrs. C. A. Sanborn, both of Janesville, told briefly of some of the methods of organization found effective in getting out the women vote.
 After a stirring speech by Clayton Randolph, East Troy, who had been elected chairman of the men's committee, the women voted to affiliate and form a joint organization which should do intensive work for the month preceding the primaries.
 With Mr. Randolph as president and George Harrington as secretary, the co-chair offices were filled by both men and women and preparations were made to send workers and literature into each section of the district.
 The meeting was held in the court room, Mrs. Morris Steele being made temporary chairman and Mrs. Grant Harrington, secretary.

ELKHORN

Elkhorn.—Elkhorn got into the movies Saturday. The Pathe company made a film of the local bands with the people of the city for a background. "Ratty" Cowles, the 100-pound saxophone player, and L. H. McQueston, with his chimes, also posed. The films will portray Elkhorn as "the greatest musical center of any town of its size in the world" and will be shown in every country where there are moving picture houses.
 Forest Cheney, Grand Rapids, Mich., spoke to the Kiwanis club at its Monday dinner. Mr. Cheney is the inventor of a phonograph and contemplates adapting a part of his invention to the manufacture of band instruments.
 Dr. Charles Ryan Adams, Springfield, O., was the speaker at the union meeting in the park Sunday night. He came to Elkhorn from the U. M. C. A. camp on Lake Geneva, where he spoke in the morning. The boys' band furnished the music.
 The League of Women's Voters will hold a meeting in Elkhorn on Aug. 18. It is for the members from the first congressional district.

BOY-TOURISTS IN LONG DESERT TRIP

Janesville Youths, Now in California, Tell of Rough Journey.

Robert Earle, Alfred Glancy and Clarence Bulver, Janesville youths touring the west in a Samson truck, have arrived at Los Angeles, Calif., according to the latest letter received from them. In making the trip to Los Angeles the boys visited in Venice and San Bernardino, spending some time in each of the two cities. In describing their trip across the desert, Robert Earle told of the extreme heat of the country and the difficulties of traveling across the extremely rough desert roads.

"At 3:30 we left Klamath Falls," writes Earle. "At 5 o'clock I took the ship for the first shift. For the first hour and a half I made good time because it was light. At the end of the first three hours we had gone 40 miles. At 9 Alfred took the wheel."

"By this time roads were not so smooth and it was very dark. The roads were rough and we did not make good time. We made 38 miles during the second shift. At 12 o'clock we stopped for midnight lunch, which occupied 20 minutes. From there Clarence piloted the ship through the rocky desert. We pitched and tossed from one side to the other as we plowed through the sand. The desert was not so bad as we imagined. It is a big piece of gently rolling white sand with a road running through it, and no vegetation of any kind save an oasis now and then."

"We were going over a stretch of road that consisted of many grades and curves. In attempting to climb a steep hill, the motor would not start and second would not do it. So Clarence shifted to first. The trouble on the governor wouldn't work, and therefore the motor would not start. Consequently the motor died and we started backward."

"Truck leaves Road. Clarence stood on both the brakes, but they refused to work. We went down the grade, increasing speed as we went. Clarence could not see where he was going. Then, all of a sudden, we shot off the grade and went down about three feet. Clarence didn't turn over; if the wheel that went over first had caught rather than slid down the bank, we surely would have. We got out shovels, pushed sand to the sand, and made a road of rocks under the wheels. It took us 20 minutes to get back on the road again. After that we watched where we were going carefully."

Continuing in his letter, Earle tells of their arrival in Los Angeles in the night and the surrounding of their car by a group of foreigners, who were watching Alfred, Glancy, sleeping in the rear of the machine. Several chance acquaintances have been picked up by the boys, including two men who were walking across the desert."

Native City of Mrs. Bond to Welcome Her in First Public Recital, Monday

Mrs. Bond in the charmingly brooded Colonial gown, which was her latest attire during her vaudeville engagement on the tenth circuit in the east last year.

Soon after the publication of "A Perfect Day," Walter Gale, the husband of an old school friend of Carrie Jacobs-Bond came to visit her. During the dark days, Mr. Gale had assisted the composer by purchasing a tenth share in her business for $1,500. In the first year of his investment he made a substantial profit and the second year, Mr. Gale realized 50 per cent from his venture.

Jokingly, Mr. Gale said to Mrs. Bond: "Well, Carrie, would you like to sell me another tenth share in your business?"

"What is it worth now?" Mrs. Bond inquired.

"Eight thousand five hundred dollars," he replied.

"Then it is a deal" and without further formalities, the transaction was concluded.

"And what are you going to do with the money?" Mr. Gale inquired of Mrs. Bond.

"Buy a house and go around the world," Mrs. Bond promptly replied.

Two Beautiful Homes

Since then Mrs. Bond has gone abroad several times, the last journey around the world having lasted six months. She has two beautiful homes in California, one at Hollywood, "The End of the Road," and "Nestor's," near San Diego.

Nestor's commands uninterrupted views of valley reaches. It is built of rustic materials, oddly designed and situated on the face of a cliff surrounded by the beautiful flowers which are peculiar only to southern California. On the opposite peak is the home of Mrs. Schuman. The famous contralto to whom Mrs. Bond dedicated "His Lullaby," which is among the songs which will be sung Monday night at the concert that Mrs. Bond is to give in the Congregational church.

A cozy view of Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond's sun room at Nestor's, which commands a view of the valley. The interior of the house, without partitions may be seen.

MELROSE TO LAKE SUPERIOR TAKING MONTH'S VACATION

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Melrose are leaving this week for a month's vacation on Lake Superior. They will motor north and visit friends en route. The Melroses will occupy a cottage on Lake Superior between Washburn and Bayfield, next door to that of Rev. O. W. Smith of Evansville, an expert freeracer and angling editor of "Outdoor Life." The trout stream in the vicinity will be faithfully fished until the first of September.

Rev. Frank Schreyer is in Vermont, and Rev. R. C. Pierson is in New York state. Rev. Mr. Melrose expected to speak one more Sunday at the union service of the Congregational, Baptist and Methodist churches but the hay fever season has altered plans.

Professor J. Forsyth Crawford will speak at the union service at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Rev. Schreyer will be home for the following Sunday.

Rock Bankers, Editors, Meet With Farmers

Bankers and editors of Rock county were guests of the Rock county Farm Bureau at a luncheon given Monday night in the Janesville Hotel. The luncheon was given by the Chicago Milk marketing company, the Rock county agricultural program and county development methods were discussed.

Speakers from Rock county will go to Madison Monday night, to hear Aaron Sapir in his address at the auditorium on tobacco marketing. This meeting is open to the public.

The bankers will meet Tuesday with the department of market officials, interested in the new tobacco pool and Sapir, who will direct the organization work.

PROPOSAL TO RAIL HEADS UNCHANGED, SAYS PRESIDENT

Otherwise the entire administration wouldn't have been so lockstep the while was over the Mr. Currier called every statement given out by administration spokesmen both at the capitol and the executive end of Pennsylvania avenue was along that line.

Found Hostile Atmosphere.

The most plausible explanation of the whole business would appear to be this: Mr. Currier and President Harding had a long conference in the morning at the white house offices and then had another long talk in the evening in the executive mansion.

Under the spell of Mr. Harding's warm personality and persuasive arguments, Mr. Currier felt the incline of every statement he made.

He had been told that if the proposals would grow worse and the country would suffer, and that as a move of expedience in the interest of the public welfare, irrespective of the question of principle or seniority rights, the plan should be accepted.

Mr. Currier went to New York to see what he could do. When he got there he found an amazingly hostile atmosphere. He saw he would be unable to turn the tide even if he fought hard.

Secretary Hoover had been asked to make the place the administration plan. But that didn't suffice—it didn't convince the executives. It is said that when Robert Lovett in a quiet and unobtrusive way stated that he could not go back on the loyal men in an employ an emotional outburst of applause swept the meeting.

Up to Labor Board

So Mr. Harding's arguments made through the head of the railway executive organization didn't carry conviction. He has the alternative of modifying his proposal or sticking to his guns and laying the case in person before the 118 railway executives.

Mr. Harding may decide to reply by letter to the executives, pointing out that since they have agreed to abide by all the decisions of the labor board as contemplated by the transportation, the seniority question will be resolved by the board later on. The president has let it be known that his announced acceptance by both sides of the principal point in his proposal—recognition of the United States labor board's decisions. Some formula must be devised, however, for the actual return of the strikers, even though the seniority question is left undecided, as some roads would have to dismiss strikebreakers to receive back into their employ the men who went on strike. Several roads can take both groups back and eliminate later, but eastern roads claim they couldn't handle the surplus and ought not to be expected to carry that extra expense.

BAKERS OF BERLIN CELEBRATE FOUNDED

Berlin-Berlin's oldest guild, last month observed the 65th anniversary of its founding.

Although this organization, which was known originally as the Germania guild, dates back only to 1857, there is documentary evidence that the bakers' trade was plied here as early as 1230. By 1890 there were 750 members enrolled. Meanwhile another association of bakers, the Koncordia, sprang up, and in 1907 the two organizations were amalgamated in a body which now requires affiliation of every baker in the city.

The present membership includes 1,670 persons.

MOOSE CLOSE BIG RALLY IN MONROE

1,000 Attend State Convention—Local Members Elected to Offices.

Three Janesville delegates to the state Moose convention and the Legion rode to Monroe, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, won honors as officers. Mrs. Bertha Flint, one of the delegates to the state meeting, was elected one of the vice presidents; Charles Newton, head of the local Moose lodge, was elected inner guard, while David Reed was selected as August, of the Heart of the Legion at the frolic held Sunday.

Al Brohm, and the three above-mentioned were the Janesville official delegates, while many others from this city motored over for some of the sessions. One of the features of the convention was the parade Saturday night, in which there were 600 people. It was estimated there were 1,000 people in Monroe to attend some of the sessions.

Stevens Point was selected as the place for the 1923 convention. Officers elected were:

President—W. F. Tannhauser, Milwaukee.

Vice presidents—W. P. Smith, Kaukauna; A. W. Zuelzfeldt, Milwaukee; J. C. Hand, Monroe; W. B. Telford, Stevens Point; Mrs. Alvin Howard, Appleton; Mrs. Bertha Flint, Janesville; Mrs. Edna Clabourne, Milwaukee; Mrs. Grace Stephens, Milwaukee.

Trustee for three years—W. S. McCaughey, Racine.

Sergeant at Arms—M. C. Gueren, Racine.

David Reed and Miss Louella Dietz, both of this city, had prominent places on the program Friday night. Both sang. The program consisted chiefly of music, one of the big features being the juvenile band of 39 pieces from Madison.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:

In a recent Gazette I read in the leading editorial this quotation: "For the first time in the memory of the oldest voter, Rock County will have a Senator of its own. This is a strange first."

The first appointment of the state in the original constitution made Rock County the 15th District; the next appointment made it the 17th District and this continued until the statute of 1890. In the apportionment of 1900, the County was restored to a separate District, the 22nd, and so continued until the close of my term. You will see that the oldest voter hardly remembers when the County was divided.

"PENROD"

A cast of 50 selected players portray in every detail Booth Tarkington's popular book and play.

No doubt you are all familiar with Freckles Barry who has appeared in several productions with Mary Pickford, also in Neilan's "Go and Get It," and "School Days."

Freckles Barry appeared personally a short time ago, at the Chicago Theatre at the same time that Penrod was running. All the Chicago papers pronounced "Penrod" with Freckles Barry, far superior to any previous production in which he appeared.

"Penrod" is produced by Marshall Neilan through the first National Picture Corp. and is not to be classified as an ordinary picture. Not only the length of the picture, which is 8 reels, but the cost of the production will assure you 100% satisfaction.

The manager recommends this picture very highly and wishes to announce that this production is a late release and not a repeater. It is a picture that will appeal to all, young and old. In order to give all the children an opportunity to see this picture we are arranging the low prices as follows:

MATINEES: Children, 10c; Adults, 25c.

EVENINGS: Children, 10c; Adults, 35c.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:

In a recent Gazette I read in the leading editorial this quotation: "For the first time in the memory of the oldest voter, Rock County will have a Senator of its own. This is a strange first."

The first appointment of the state in the original constitution made Rock County the 15th District; the next appointment made it the 17th District and this continued until the statute of 1890. In the apportionment of 1900, the County was restored to a separate District, the 22nd, and so continued until the close of my term. You will see that the oldest voter hardly remembers when the County was divided.

The Tattooed Arm

By Isabel Ostrander

What horrible and mysterious power was forcing the three Drake brothers, Wall Street broker, ROBERT, eminent scientist, and ANDREW, recently returned from Australia, to place themselves in ridiculous situations? Some power had forced Hobart to deliver a speech in the public square. Roger, to burlesque a scientific address and Andrew to play with toys. The three appear terror-stricken and without their knowledge.

PATRICIA DRANE, daughter of Hobart, secured OWEN MILES, detective sergeant, and his colleague, SUTHERLAND, to investigate. Miles is employed as a houseman and Scottie as a gardener. Following a series of mysterious events, Patricia suddenly disappears—an event which Miles cannot understand. He and Patricia were in each other's confidence. Possibly the attempt of her sinister aunt, MISS JERUSA DRANE, to break up her two sons with RICHARD KEMP, has been the cause. Miles is suddenly summoned by Hobart Drake.

"What was the first thing you put on the night track, Owen?" the puffed contentedly on his pipe. "I think it was Andrew's hair," Miles responded. "It struck me as odd in my first talk with Wells and little Miss Patricia that Hobart, Roger and Andrew had made public exhibitions of themselves, but Andrew's at of supposed insanity took place safe at home, for the benefit of one of the servants alone."

"When I had made up my mind that insanity played no part in the strange events the only alternative to consider was blackmail, and it must have been for some indiscretion or even crime committed in the past. Right then the solution was in my grasp for you had learned that in their youth Roger had been interested in chemistry, dyeing and in photography, that Hobart was a pen-and-ink artist and Andrew had worked for a time in a pulp manufacturing plant. The old chest of metal junk which we carried away from under the floor of the summer house and destroyed the morning after we wound up the case, Scottie did not contain the remains of a printing press as you surmised, but the relic of a machine for making a replica of the face threaded paper the government used for genuine greenbacks and had been an original invention of the real Andrew."

"It didn't come to me even then that the truth was staring me in the face until you brought me that two-dollar bill tip and said, 'counterfeit. It was scorching at one end and knowing that Rip must have found it somewhere I concluded that it had been on the dust-heap of the summer house must have been among the ashes which she cleaned out of the drawing-room fireplace after I had seen her burning something there at midnight."

"I recalled her words: 'Ashes. A gasping cry came from Jerusa. every one. If only the first had never conceived this horror would not have descended upon us.' She had known from the start. What her brothers were doing. None of her brothers knew until just before the explosion came that she had been wise all the time; they thought she believed that mythical mark on Andrew's arm when he took off his coat there in the garden just before Miss Hawk's appearance? To be sure, my back was to him but I was there to keep my eyes on him and everybody—how did you first guess that the Hawkes woman knew Andrew for an impostor?"

"It happened to be in the hall when she ran out of the house like a mad woman after a tea-table set with a drew and the next minute he upset the table and scalded his arm. It wasn't a bad burn and it occurred to me that that it was just an excuse for a bandage!"

Miles face sobered. "Gray was the name of the woman. It was he who wrote that devilish satirical lecture and forced poor Roger by anonymous threats to deliver it; he who wrote the other anonymous letters, one of which he slipped into the house by means of a French window which Andrew had left open for him and left on the hall table the night of my arrival to be mixed with the mail next morning, when I concluded it was some member of the household. He disguised his voice for the telephone threats which so agitated the family, but he cannot figure out how Roger Drake penetrated his habitual disguise. "Roger did, then?" asked the other. "Oh, yes. It was the shock of that which caused his stroke. Gray had a sort of half-laboratory back of this cottage and he was putting about in it when Roger called. Just as he approached that removed his wife and Roger saw that the elderly naturalist was really a young man in disguise. The logical reason for it came over him with a rush and his only thought was to get home and warn his brothers, but he was struck with the word uttered upon his lips: Miles rose. "That papyrus was curious, wasn't it?"

"It was an example of remarkably poor judgment on Roger's part, picture writing or no, if it was as you said a complete record of the way they made their counterfeit money," remarked Scottie. "It was more than that; an example of the Drake consequence working over time," replied Miles. "Roger had designed it in the nature of a confession to his intimate friend, Osborn Masterman, though when Osborn ransacked the storeroom he hoped to find something more tangible."

"There is one thing that still is dark to me," Scottie pulled at his pipe, and finding it dead laid it on the mantel. "How did Osborn and his confederate know that the paper-making machine was buried under the summer house?"

"They only knew it was hidden somewhere, for the real Andrew must have talked a bit more in his dying ravings than he seems to have told, they hoped to find the whole paraphernalia so that they could make some more of the queer and shove it themselves."

THE END.

HEART AND HOME

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have nice eye lashes but they are not very long. My eye brows though do not suit me because they are so thin. Will you please print an eyebrow grower.

THANK YOU.

For an eyebrow grower the following is recommended: Vaseline, two ounces; tincture of camphor, one ounce; oil of lavender, fifteen drops; oil of rosemary, fifteen drops.

Mix thoroughly and apply to the eyebrows with a tiny toothbrush once a day until the growth is sufficiently stimulated; then use often. The ointment may be used on the eyelashes also. In this case, it will inflame the eyes if it gets into them.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman of thirty-two and have two children, a girl and a boy. My husband is very partial to the little girl and it really breaks my heart. When she and her little brother quarrel my husband always takes her part and punishes the boy even if it is her fault. My little boy feels this and after says, "Papa doesn't love me."

I have told my husband about this and it only makes him angry and he tells me I am crazy. Nothing that I say can do any good. What would you advise me to do?

MARTHA G.

Since you have talked to your husband about his partiality and he refuses to see his fault, it is useless to say more. When you leave him alone to act in his own way he will see for himself that he is not fair.

It is unfortunate for the children when a parent is partial, and just as bad for the favored child as the one neglected. The favored child becomes spoiled and the other suffers because of lack of love.

Do not talk about the matter to your little boy, but let your love for him make up for the lack from his father. I do not mean that you should be partial too, but you can love both children equally and still mean so much to the boy that he will be happy.

I feel sorry for your husband too, because he probably does not realize he is unfair, but when the children grow up he will find himself without the love of his son.

Dinner Stories

George developed a journalistic instinct at the early age of 15. With the consent of his father and some assistance from the same source he bought an "amateur printing outfit" and started the Klinkerville Monthly Journal, subscription price 50 cents a year, payable in advance.

"I suppose you call yourself the editor and proprietor of this office," remarked an envious young associate who dropped in at his "sanctum" in the basement of the paternal dwelling one day.

"Of course I do," responded the youthful journalist. "I don't owe a cent on it."

"Proprietor! Umph! Everybody knows you got $25 from your father to start it with."

"Yes, sir!" stoutly rejoined George. "And his subscription for the Journal is marked paid 50 years ahead on my books!"

A Chicago man, whose hobby is the clipping and collecting of humorous advertisements, especially those appearing in the "want" columns, has recently added the following to his collection: an advertisement that appeared in a paper of that city:

"A former racing driver lately perfected a new speedometer. When the car attains the speed of 40 miles a red light flashes.

"When it reaches the 50 mark a red light flashes and a gong rings.

"When the car is going 60 miles a red light flashes, a gong rings and a phonograph plays 'Nearer My God, to Thee.'"

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

PICTURES QUE HATS

I wish all women knew how to choose millinery. If they did there would be no more of those hats that are a great many more good looking women in the world. No matter how beautiful a woman is she ceases to be so when she dons the wrong type of hat.

Often young girls write and ask me what sort of hats they should wear. It's impossible to tell them, of course, so much depends on the contours of the face. The small hat, the square jaw does not look well together, the hat that slopes back from the forehead and the chin that slopes down from the mouth is hopeless as a combination. It is only possible to give a very few general rules.

The young and pretty face is at its best when framed by a picture hat, but the fat woman should avoid pictures of the arms, which resembles what is called "goose flap" however, it can be overcome by using a flesh brush and at times include salt in the bath. Turkish baths are very helpful, also. When the nose is perspiring too much dust them with a powder in which there is salicylic acid. The proportions are two grammes of the salicylic acid to five grammes of powder. If the hair is too curly, it can be straightened by the use of a hair straightener. There is some physical disturbance which requires a physician's care.

Reader—If your scalp is dry the vaseline will make as good an oil treatment as any other oil. No, it will not turn the hair grey.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Breakfast: Cereal with Top Milk, Sliced Peaches, Cinnamon Rolls.

Luncheon: Cottage Pie, Blackberries, Fresh Coconut Cake, Milk or Tea.

Dinner: Ham, Baked Potatoes, Fruit Salad, Cakes, Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cottage Pie—One cup cooked meat, cut in small pieces, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, speck of nutmeg, one teaspoon cooked chopped onion, one-half cup gravy or stock. Line baking pan with pie crust, put in mixture, add top crust and bake. Or, if you have leftover mashed potatoes, put them over top instead of pie crust.

Fresh Coconut Cake—Four heaping tablespoons butter, one cup (small) sugar, two eggs, pinch of salt, two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half cups milk (scant). Cream butter and sugar, add yolks of eggs. Sift flour, baking powder and salt two times, then add to mixture. Beat until smooth, then pour into pans. This makes a two-layer cake. Bake in medium oven.

The hat should frame the face softly.

ture hats as though they were the plague. "She will only make herself ridiculous. It used to be thought that the elderly woman should not wear the softly drooping wide brimmed hats, but if the elderly woman dresses beautifully, and succeeds in making herself look artistic, there is no reason why she should not put this type of hat over her grey hairs.

The only thing the fat woman can do is to make herself look dignified. Things are done to save oneself by borrowed dignity. The toque is preeminently the stout woman's hat, but it should fit well down over the head, it should not sit up high in a detached fashion. This way of wearing a hat seems to be a weakness of the stout woman.

The toque belongs to the mature face, the very young girl should not wear it. She has enough prettiness to choose from with wide or narrow brims.

THE INCOMBUSTIBLE HANDKERCHIEF

Tell your audience that so wonderful and great is the potency of modern magic as you know it, that even the seemingly unconquerable destructive power of fire can be rendered harmless.

Then you declare that a dainty silk or lace handkerchief can be placed in the flame of a candle, after it has blazed up fiercely, and yet the handkerchief will have remained absolutely unscathed.

The secret is merely this: Steep the handkerchief in alcohol, then put a match or candle to it. While the alcohol lasts, the candle cannot burn. But be sure to put out the flame before all the alcohol is consumed; otherwise the fire will attack and burn the cloth.

CATTLE.—Steers sold on an advance in the market. Sellar grades have passed the previous week's price. The decrease was at least partly due to poor service from the railroads in shipping cattle to the market. The average price for the week was $10.00 per head, but there are some instances of larger gains, especially in the higher grades. The market is coming over the wire at all hours. Do so. We will be pleased to have inquiries. Call for editorial rooms.

DRAFT SHOW STOCK FOR COUNTY HERDS

Memory Expert Expects to Give Several Talks in City.

Blue ribbon winners at the Janesville fair will be drafted for showing in Madison and Milwaukee to represent Rock county in the attempt to win the county sweepstakes banner for the third straight time. The committee representing the breeding associations meeting in the county house on Friday night made final plans for Rock county, obtaining as many animals and as much farm products as possible for showing at the Wisconsin state fair.

Support for the project was reported by Oscar Nelson, secretary of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce. "We are anxious to see Rock county win as many prizes as possible and achieve the fame the county deserves," stated Secretary Nelson.

The United States government through a report of a joint committee, which was ordered by Congress, takes the following stand on farm marketing:

"The commission believes that the situation of the agricultural producer can be materially improved by a more efficient production of crops in producing centers so as to permit more economic selection, grading and preparation of commodities in the producer's local markets and recommends that the agricultural producers of the United States be encouraged to develop co-operative associations to hasten the standardization of agricultural production, improve the distributive process and reduce their cost."

"With the development of co-operative marketing organizations, production becomes more uniform, more standardized with benefit to the producers, distributors and consumers. The federal government has recognized the economic value of agricultural producers' organizations for the purpose of co-operatively producing, preparing and marketing products by removing the limitations which have previously retarded the full development of such organizations."

Tax Free Stock Blamed by Bureau for High Taxes

"Tax free securities are nothing more or less than havens for the rich who wish to invest their money and escape paying their proportion of the expenses of the government," said H. C. McKenzie, tax expert of the American Farm Bureau Federation recently commenting upon the House resolution introduced by Representative Green of Iowa, which would do away with all tax free Federal bonds. "People with large incomes who formerly lent large sums on farm mortgages have entirely retired from this field of investment owing to the fact that a 5 per cent tax free bond will give them as much income as the income from a 10 per cent taxable mortgage."

"The annual loss in taxes to the Federal Government is at least $600,000,000 per year, according to Professor Seligman of Columbia University. In addition states having income tax laws lose a very large amount. The net result is to increase the taxes on all other property. The last report of the New York State Tax Commission shows that while 25 per cent of incomes of the people of the state comes from real property, 70 per cent of the taxes are paid from this source."

Co-op Marketing Favored by U. S. Committee Report

The United States government through a report of a joint committee, which was ordered by Congress, takes the following stand on farm marketing:

"The commission believes that the situation of the agricultural producer can be materially improved by a more efficient production of crops in producing centers so as to permit more economic selection, grading and preparation of commodities in the producer's local markets and recommends that the agricultural producers of the United States be encouraged to develop co-operative associations to hasten the standardization of agricultural production, improve the distributive process and reduce their cost."

"With the development of co-operative marketing organizations, production becomes more uniform, more standardized with benefit to the producers, distributors and consumers. The federal government has recognized the economic value of agricultural producers' organizations for the purpose of co-operatively producing, preparing and marketing products by removing the limitations which have previously retarded the full development of such organizations."

Tax Free Stock Blamed by Bureau for High Taxes

"Tax free securities are nothing more or less than havens for the rich who wish to invest their money and escape paying their proportion of the expenses of the government," said H. C. McKenzie, tax expert of the American Farm Bureau Federation recently commenting upon the House resolution introduced by Representative Green of Iowa, which would do away with all tax free Federal bonds. "People with large incomes who formerly lent large sums on farm mortgages have entirely retired from this field of investment owing to the fact that a 5 per cent tax free bond will give them as much income as the income from a 10 per cent taxable mortgage."

"The annual loss in taxes to the Federal Government is at least $600,000,000 per year, according to Professor Seligman of Columbia University. In addition states having income tax laws lose a very large amount. The net result is to increase the taxes on all other property. The last report of the New York State Tax Commission shows that while 25 per cent of incomes of the people of the state comes from real property, 70 per cent of the taxes are paid from this source."
